| 1 | Read the passage given below : <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. The term 'junk food' refers to the foods that do not good to our body and are completely unimportant. Junk foods have no or very less nutritional value and irrespective of the way they are marketed, they are not healthy to consume. Most of them are high in saturated fats and sugar components with excess of salts and lack any fibre.2. The only reason of their gaining popularity and increased trend of consumption is that they are ready to eat or easy to cook food. Besides, the ease of manufacturing and consumption makes the junk food market spread its influence so rapidly. People of all age groups are moving towards junk food as it is hassle-free and ready to grab and eat at all times. Soft drinks, chips, wafers, noodles, pizza, burgers, French fries etc. are few examples from the vast variety of junk food available in the market.3. However, we should be aware about the ill-effects of consuming junk food. Junk food causes a characteristic spike in the energy levels and hence lures us to eat more of it thus marking it even more harmful. This eating pattern is likely to cause aggravated energy levels that fail to come down even at sleep time and thus result in sleeping disorders. Moodiness is another implication of regular consumption of junk food. Reduced levels of concentration also result from eating junk food. The most common bad effect is obesity which has become very common even amongst children aged as low as 3-5 years. It further leads to many other chronic diseases and hormonal imbalances. Heart disease, increased levels of blood pressure and sugar are more likely to happen if the person is a regular consumer of oily junk foods.4. Since junk foods are not easy to digest and consume larger amounts of energy from the body in the process, people who regularly eat junk food experience lack of oxygen levels which gradually causes the brain to function poorly. Not only heart, but liver too can be damaged due to excessive cholesterol formed in the body as a result of eating junk food. More people are diabetic early in life because they eat junk food more often. No fibre in junk food means strain on digestive system which results in problem of constipation.5. It may be thus concluded that junk food does excessive harm to our health. So, in order to enjoy good health and a happy life, it is important to cut down on junk food. We must substitute junk food with healthier food like fresh fruits and vegetables.6. So, the next time you think of grabbing that burger, hotdog, pizza, samosa, kachories or even creams, stop your instincts and look for some healthier food option instead. | 8 |

	On the basis of your reading of the passage, answer the following questions briefly: (1x8) (a) Why are junk foods not at all important? (b) What is the reason behind the increasing popularity of junk foods? (c) Why does the consumption of junk food lead to sleeping disorders? (d) What is the effect of junk food on younger children? (e) Why do regular consumers of junk food experience lack of oxygen levels? (f) How does the lack of fibre in fast food affect human body? (g) “..... stop your instincts ...” (para 6). What instinct (s) is the author talking about here? (h) Which word in paragraph 3 of the passage means the same as ‘consequence’?
2	Read the passage given below and answer the questions that follow: (2x4)+(1x4)=12 1. “Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise”; this age-old saying has become irrelevant today since life styles have changed beyond recognition. The internet, television programmes, late night parties, funky dances, commuting in traffic jams, etc. have rendered it impossible to retire early at night. The businessmen and executives are worst affected because most of their engagements continue into the late hours of the night. They have to make long distance calls at night to their clients and vendors abroad due to the time gaps in various regions of the world. Children burdened with homework and those who compete in the highly competitive job market have to burn the midnight oil. Life has become so fast paced that a person has to work day in and day out. Now for all practical purposes, life has shifted much beyond sunset. The modern life style has affected one’s sleeping hours. Busy people like politicians, bureaucrats, industrialists, businessmen, executives and professionals hardly get a full night’s sleep. 2. In metropolitan cities, school-going children have to reach their schools early so they have to get up before sunrise. The lady of the house has to prepare breakfast and mid-day meals for her children, husband and even for herself if she is a working woman. Therefore, it becomes a necessity to rise early. All such people should sleep early but it is not possible for them to do so. As a result, efficiency and performance suffer. 3. Old values are giving place to new. Hot water bath is now recommended in place of cold water bath because it stimulates the nerves and muscles. We start our day with newspapers and read news about murders, kidnapping, accidents, theft, threats and family disputes, agitations, divorces, etc. Such news items keep on haunting the readers for the whole day. Psychiatrists, therefore, recommend that one should not read the newspapers in the morning. 4. According to a report published in New Scientist magazine, early risers are more stressed than those who rise late. Researchers at the University of Westminster in London have discovered that people who get up early also have a higher level to cortisol, the body’s main stress hormones. Early risers are also reported to have more muscle aches, cold symptoms and headaches and significantly worse moods. 5. The sum and substance is that there is strong correlation between sleep and efficiency. The more sound the sleep, the more will be freshness and desire to work. While children are supposed to sleep longer hours, adults must also have the full quota of undisturbed sleep. I) On the basis of your reading of the passage, answer the following questions briefly: (4x2=8) (a) The author believes that the age-old saying “Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy wealthy and wise” has become irrelevant today. He gives three reasons in support of this view. One of them is using the internet, watching television, holding late night	12

	parties, and traffic jams. What are the other two reasons? (b) “All such people should sleep early but it is not possible for them to do so” (paragraph 2). Who are ‘all such people’? How are they affected by rising early and sleeping late? (c) According to some psychiatrists, why should one not read newspapers in the morning? (d) Why, according to the study of University of Westminster, are early risers more stressed? II) Choose the most appropriate option in each of the following: (1) The word ‘commuting’ (paragraph 1) means the same as (i) crowding (ii) suffering (iii) travelling (iv) struggling (2) The expression ‘burn the midnight oil’ (paragraph 1) means the same as (i) experience more stress than usual (ii) work or study in poor light (iii) waste time and energy (iv) work or study at night (3) The word ‘stimulates’ as used in paragraph 3 of the passage means which of the following? (i) weakens (ii) energizes (iii) repairs (iv) connects (4) In the expression ‘such news items keep on haunting the readers’ (paragraph 3), the word ‘haunting’ has been used to mean which of the following? (i) disturbing (ii) informing (iii) entertaining (iv) puzzling
